Business Adopt-a-Hive

Your people. Your ideas.
A season with the bees.

Meet Mark. Make it yours.

A gift. A team day. A story worth sharing.

What if your next staff thank-you came with a hive story? Or your team stepped out of the meeting room and into the bees' world? Start with an idea. Mark will help you explore it.

Connect

Bring your people together through local honey, shared moments and a personal connection with Mark.

Explore

Discover the bees, taste the season and choose an experience that fits your business.

Sustain

Support natural 3H care: Happy, Healthy, Heavy. The bees' winter stores come before the harvest.

No tiers. Custom partnerships from $1,000.

What could yours become?

One hive or several. Staff rewards. A team day learning about bees. Build around the ideas that excite you.

One hive. Or a whole shared story.

Explore one or multiple adopted hives, name them for your business or teams, and follow their season with Mark.

Reward the people who make it happen.

Thank staff with honey gifts, celebrate milestones or explore a shared harvest for your team.

Take your team somewhere different.

Plan a guided bee-learning day, see the apiary and taste the honey. Group size, accessibility, safety and timing are agreed together.

Give clients a story, not just a jar.

Explore client thank-yous, holiday gifts or welcome gifts with company branding on lids, gift tags and boxes. Honey glass stays beautifully bare.

Bring the bees into the conversation.

Ask about a workplace talk, a honey tasting or an observation-hive session, subject to the venue and availability.

Let your business follow the season.

Discuss hive naming, seasonal photos, short hive notes and an honest local story to share with staff and clients.

Make room for more than honeybees.

Explore a suitable pollinator garden, planting day or mason-bee project. Local conditions, sourcing and scope come first.

Could your land be part of the story?

If your business has suitable land, ask Mark to assess a possible host site. Permissions, access and safe hive placement are agreed separately.

Let's meet and explore.

Tell Mark about your people, occasion and budget. Together, agree the hives, honey, branding and experiences. All ideas are subject to a custom quote, availability and suitable conditions.
